Within the 9 credits of the university's elective courses (oV2), students can choose from the list of approved elective courses and visiting professors' courses accredited by other faculties of the University of Economics, Prague. Additionally, they can choose from language courses (same offer as available in oJP plus Chinese).

For their study abroad, students should prefer a partner university that offers International Relations, International Studies or Political Science programme(s) and enrol classes that can be recognised as compulsory courses (oP) in accordance with their study plan if possible. The recognition of a course taken at the partner university can be assessed by the guarantor of the relevant course at the University of Economics, Prague, before the semester abroad, based on a request submitted through the InSIS Contact Centre and supplemented by a syllabus of the subject from the partner university, or a functional and freely accessible link to the syllabus on the partner university's website.

Students can choose bachelor's thesis topics offered in English by the:

- Department of International and Diplomatic Studies
- Department of International Economic Relations

A bachelor's thesis seminar must be successfully completed in the semester that precedes the semester, in which the thesis is to be defended.
